DAIRYMEN PLAN REOPENING OF ANTIOCH PLANT

Capital For Purchase And Equipment Now Being Subscribed.

Renewed activity on the part of Antioch Farmers Dairy company started last week following a meeting of local dairymen and business men who met Wednesday night at the owners of the Antioch dairy plant at the Danish Hall.

The Antioch Farmers' Dairy Co., organized last January when prospects seemed rosy for the reopening of the local plant, after an option for the purchase of the plant had been obtained from the Broxm company of Chicago. Farmers were interested in the project did not perfect an effective working organization, nor was the stock subscribed before the date of the expiration of the option, February.

That the property might be saved for the dairymen at the price named in the terms of the purchase agreement, the plant was bought by C. Abt, W. R. Williams and C. Shultis. Dairymen remained inactive in the matter until last week when the move was started to purchase the property from the owners and reopen the plant here.

Seek to Raise $15,000 Capital

Working among the farmers to get needed $15,000 capital subscribers are Bert Bown, committee chairman, Mr. Fields, Mike Golden, Chas. Asman, Peter Tuft, F. W. Hatch and Wm. Lasco. This amount of capital, it is said, will be amply sufficient to purchase the plant and re-equip it.

Antioch, far distant from other milk delivery points, and close to Wisconsin's clean producing territory, occupies a strategic position as a convenient shipping point, notwithstanding the contention of certain Chicago dealers who are spreading propaganda in an effort to discourage the dairymen and seeking to block the move to reopen the local plant. Milk is a necessity, and the marketing of a commodity is a matter of small concern once the local plant is reopened.

Concerted and prompt action on the part of the dairymen in raising the capital required to reopen the Antioch plant will make the producers in this locality independent for a time to come.

Committee members are reporting splendid progress in the work, and much of the capital stock already as been subscribed.

Death Claims Three As Auto Hits Train At Rondout Crossing

Three Lake Forest youths, returning from Libertyville at eleven thirty last Thursday evening, were killed instantly when the car in which they were riding collided with the fast merchandise train of the C. M. & St. Paul railroad on Rockland Road at Rondout. The dead are: Jack Pelmar, Edward Cooper, and Carl Johnson.

Their auto, a Hupmobile touring car, struck the train between the engine tank and the first express car and the impact hurled the occupants from the car and under the wheels of the train.

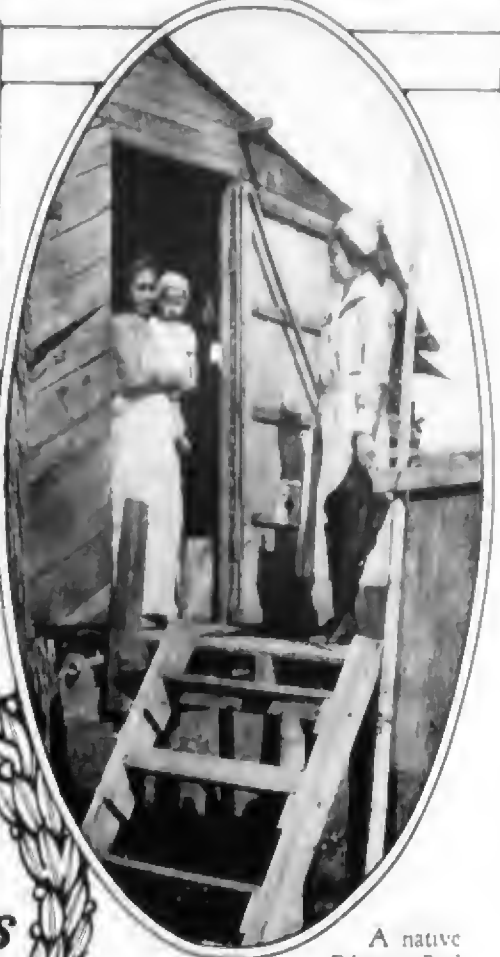

The crossing is a blind one, and admittedly one of the worst in the county, the view of the tracks being impeded from the south by the North Shore Line embankment. No guard is maintained there during the night hours. The watchman had been gone only a few minutes when the accident occurred.

The collision broke the air line of the express car and brought the train to a sudden stop. A member of the night switching crew at Rondout discovered the bodies of the men and summoned Coroner J. L. Taylor and a deputy sheriff.

Marks on the pavement indicated that the driver had made a vain attempt to stop after seeing the train, but had been unable to do so.

A night gateman was on the job at the dangerous crossing Friday night for the first time, presumably as a result of the accident, since frequent appeals to the railroad officials that the crossing be guarded at all hours have always hitherto fallen on deaf ears.

STREETS, ALLEYS AND EASEMENTS, TOPICS OF DAY

Progress is Thrust Upon Us
—The Problem Is To Keep Pace.

To have a street, or not to have a street, and have an alley instead, or to have neither street nor alley and grant easement rights to the Public Service company for laying gas lines east of Main street in the business section of Antioch was the subject occupying the undivided attention of property owners and the village board Monday night.

Years ago some far-sighted men of the town saw the advisability of laying out an additional north and south street parallel with Main, plat of street was made and all right-of-way provided except in the case of two property owners. There the project died. Two weeks ago the street or alley question was again made a live issue through the announcement that the Public Service company were about ready to begin laying gas mains to the town and sought the assistance of the board and property owners in securing the necessary right-of-way. The gas franchise for a period of fifty years was granted to the Public Service company in 1926.

Committee to Assist Board
In working out the problem, which must be solved in the very near future, the board of trustees will have the assistance of the following committee of property owners: Wm. Keulman, chairman, William Rosling, George Rhodes, Archie Mapletorpe and Chase Webb.

FIRST NATIONAL GETS $30,000 OF COUNTY FUNDS

Thirty thousand dollars in county funds was deposited in the First National Bank of Antioch this week by Jay B. Morse, County Treasurer. Money was also placed in the banks of Highland and Highland Park. The original plan of raising the rate of interest from 2 to 2 1/2 per cent was abandoned by the board as it was the opinion of all of the banks that they could not afford to handle county funds, a great part of which are subject to call at all times, at a rate higher than 2 per cent.

Upon the accession of the present treasurer to office the money of the county were transferred to a Chicago banking house, and the deposit made here recently is a step in the returning of the funds to county institutions.

The place is now rented to the Wetzel Chevrolet company and is used as a display room for second-hand cars.

BOND ISSUE WILL BE STATE BENEFIT, SAYS W. J. STRATTON

Work of Department Told
By Director Of Conservation.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23—Accomplishments of the State Department of Conservation were detailed here today by Director William H. J. Stratton, as the surest indication of the benefit the State of Illinois will draw under the proposed $20,000,000 bond issue.

"The character of constructive work we have done," he said, "is a sample of the work we have outlined, as not only possible, but certain, under the bond issue.

"Revenues of the department, license fees for hunting and fishing, have been the means of the work we have done, and the same revenue will pay the bond issue without one cent of direct taxes. Here are some of the things accomplished by the Department. We have established six fish hatcheries, and two game farms. Here game and fish are protected.

"Our hatcheries are at Spring Grove, Yorkville, Rockford, East St. Louis, Caryle, Wyand, Matteson and Kankakee. The game farms are at Alton and Yorkville. More than 200,000 pheasant eggs have been distributed to farmers and sportsmen for hatching. At the Alton farm this year there have been raised more than 5,000 pheasants and partridges and at the Yorkville farm 7,000.

"Twenty thousand quail have been imported into the state and released. "Besides conserving fish and game, we have established grounds for public hunting and fishing. We have acquired 3,000 acres at Horse Shoe Lake near Cairo; 1,700 acres in Woodford county, and 700 acres near Lacon in Marshall county.

"Under the bond issue this program will be enlarged. We will have the means to acquire various hatcheries and game farms, and various hunting and fishing grounds. Our acquisitions of river lands which are overflooded annually will be a benefit to suffering farmers. We will not restrict the water as they have done but give it a natural course. We will acquire uplands and develop reforestation in practically every county in Illinois. This will be another means of flood control, inasmuch as forests hold back water instead of sending it off so quickly."

CHICAGO LAWYER IS ACQUITTED OF CRIMINAL CHARGE

After ten minutes deliberation the jury brought in an acquittal verdict in the case of Sarah Anderson of Chicago, against Atty. Clarence Shaver, also of that place. Shaver was charged with having criminally attacked the girl at his cottage at Fox Lake. The case of Claire Sherwood, Lake Villa postmaster, arrested on a similar charge by Laura Sorenson, also of Lake Villa, went to the jury Wednesday of this week. The failure of the girl to answer questioning from the witness stand and the introduction of much evidence by the defendant tending to substantiate his contention that he was not at home at the time of the alleged attack, seemed to indicate when the case went to the jury that a verdict of acquittal would be returned.

FIRST SHIPMENTS OF CORONA PENS ARE MADE THIS WEEK

Factory Is Established In
New Building And Production Begun.

Manufacture and shipment of Corona fountain pens began here this week.

The new factory building has just been completed, its erection having been started last July, following the decision of the company to move its plant from Janesville to Antioch. It is modern in every respect, with approved overhead lighting and an automatic heating plant which insure proper heat and ventilation at all times. The present unit will accommodate 200 workers.

Work at the plant is not yet at full swing, owing to the fact that not all of the equipment has been installed; but the manufacture of pens has been begun and shipments of approximately 250 pens have been going forward each day for the past week. This is a comparatively small quantity of pens, officials estimating that 1000 or more will be sent out daily when the factory gets on a full working basis. At present many orders received by the factory have not been filled but it is anticipated that they will be cleared up in a few days and the Christmas demand will be met.

Pens Have Wide Market

Corona pens have a wide market, going to Germany, Madrid in Spain, and in fact to practically all of the European countries, as well as to Honolulu and other remote corners of the globe.

The force at the factory is under the management of Arthur Liddell, and numbers 14 at present. Increase in workmen is awaiting the completion of the installation of the tool making machinery and polishing and other equipment. It is anticipated that a working force of about 30 people will be employed during the winter months.

The company has a selling force in the field under the direction of George C. Olin, who is general sales manager.

MEN GET PRISON TERM IN STORE THEFT CHARGE

White and Foster Given
One to Twenty Years
For Offense.

Indeterminate sentences of one to twenty years in the state penitentiary were imposed on Edward White and Harry Foster, both of Chicago who were tried in Judge Edwards' court in Waukegan last week on the charge of burglarizing Williams Bros. store May 5th of this year.

In sentencing the men, Judge Edwards stated that he should have considered recommending leniency in the case of Foster, the younger and less experienced of the two defendants, except for the fact that the pair had withdrawn their confessions and pleaded "not guilty."

At the time they were caught both admitted the theft and supplied the Lake Forest police who made the arrest with the details. In changing their plea to "not guilty" they asserted that they did not steal the goods and did not know how they came to be in their car except that they believed the Lake Forest police department had done it.

Local People Testify

The state called as witnesses in the case, Captain Jack Dunn and Patrolman Joe Dunakin of Lake Forest, who apprehended the men, and Lew Van Patten, Russell Barnstable, and Miss Maude Brogan of the Williams' Brothers store, all of whom testified as to the facts of the robbery, and identified the men on trial as those taken by the Lake Forest police on the morning of October 5th. Foster was the only witness for the defense, White having refused to testify.

White Wanted Elsewhere

Of the two defendants, White, who was the older of the pair had the most lurid record. Waiting in the court room for the outcome of this trial were authorities from Morris, Illinois, who wanted the man to answer a charge of having stolen 400 suits of clothing from a clothier in Morris and sold them through a "fence" for $10.00 apiece.

Twice during the period between May and the calling of the case White had made efforts to escape. The first time, authorities intercepted a letter being sent by the prisoner to a pal outside in which he asked that tools be furnished him so that he might saw his way out. Later on a carton of cigarettes arrived for him, the gift of a woman, and upon examination, the police found therein implements with which to saw his way to liberty.

Foster appeared to be despondent and much affected by his incarceration, but White showed no indication. (Continued on Page 8)

Treasurer's Funds Embezzlement Cases Are Set for Dec. 12

Trial in the case of Roy Bracher, Ira E. Pearson, Harold E. Martin, Caleb A. Husick and Clark Nye, all charged with conspiracy to embezzle $100,000 of Lake county funds, will be held Monday morning, December 12, according to action taken by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Fischer.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by the defendants before Judge Fischer last Friday.

Attorney Ralph J. Dady, counsel for Roy Bracher, indicated in court that after the evidence is heard he will make a fight to have the court take the case from the jury and dismiss the defendants on the grounds that the offense was committed in 1922 and in accordance with the statute of limitations, the legal time of 18 months, during which a prosecution may be begun, has elapsed.

States Attorney Smith stated that he was prepared to prove that the last over act in the alleged conspiracy took place in December 1926 and that he did not fear that the case would be dismissed on that score.

ALLENDALE BAND HEARD IN CONCERT AT POULTRY SHOW

In reporting the poultry show last week the News overlooked mentioning the very fine concert given by the Allendale band. The band, which had been scheduled to play outside was unable to do so because of the cold weather. They gave their concert at the high school from 4 to 5 p. m. instead.

Owing to the lateness of the hour and the fact that there was uncertainty caused by the change from an outdoor to an indoor concert, the audience was not so large as the splendid program merited.

ALLENDALE SHEEP TO COMPETE AT INTERNATIONAL

Will Be Entered in Livestock Meet Against World's Best.

Allendale Oxford Down sheep will be displayed at the International Livestock show beginning next Saturday in Chicago. The sheep have made a very creditable showing this year, winning awards at every fair at which they have been exhibited.

Last week they brought away 18 prizes, and the awards for the champion ewe and the best pen of lambs at the American Royal Stock show at Kansas City, Missouri.

On Friday, November 25, as a curtain raiser to the International, there will be staged a national live stock judging contest between state champion junior teams.

Saturday the college teams will judge live stock and crops, the juniors will show their baby beavers, pigs and lambs, the carloads of fat cattle will be judged in the stock yards and the mutton improvement demonstration contest decided. Judging will start in the grain and hay show and continue daily until completed.

Monday, November 28, will witness the awarding of prizes in the steer, barrow and wether classes, the college sheep and swine contests, the carload sheep show, the draft gelding classes and the breeding rings of Shorthorns, Herefords, Percherons and Shires. The various contests of the National Boys' and Girls' Club Congress will begin and continue throughout the week. At night the juniors will parade in the arena.

On Tuesday there will be held the steer championships, college cattle specials, inter-collegiate meat judging contest, swine carload show and the breeding classes for Aberdeen-Angus, Shorthorns, Polled Shorthorns, Herefords, Shropshires, Dorsets, Berkshires, Chester Whites, Percherons and Belgians.

The following day the breeding Herefords, Aberdeen-Angus, Shorthorns, Milking Shorthorns, Hampshire sheep, Lincolns, Cheviots, Ramboulllets, Durne-Jerseys and Hampshire swine will occupy the arena. A special horse show matinee will be given.

Thursday will find the judges working on the Aberdeen-Angus, Hereford Red Polled, Oxford, Cotswold, Southdown, Leicester, Poland-China, Tamworth, Belgian and Clydehead breeding classes. The grand champion steer and all carloads will be sold at auction.

Friday will be given over to the judging of the remaining breeds. Auctions of carcasses, wethers barrows and club calves will be held.

The final day, Saturday, December 3, will be featured by the sale of individual steers, a children's matinee and the championship classes of the night horse show.

DAIRYMEN PLAN REOPENING OF ANTIOCH PLANT

Capital For Purchase And Equipment Now Being Subscribed.

Renewed activity on the part of the Antioch Farmers Dairy company was started last week following a meeting of local dairymen and business men who met Wednesday night with the owners of the Antioch dairy plant at the Danish Hall.

The Antioch Farmers Dairy Co., was organized last January when prospects seemed rosy for the reopening of the local plant, after an option for the purchase of the plant had been obtained from the Broxham company of Chicago. Farmers who were interested in the project could not perfect an effective working organization, nor was the stock subscribed before the date of the expiration of the option, February 17. That the property might be saved for the dairymen at the price named in the terms of the purchase agreement, the plant was bought by R. C. Abt, W. R. Williams and C. E. Shultz. Dairymen remained inactive in the matter until last week when the move was started to purchase the property from the owners and reopen the plant here.

Seek To Raise $15,000 Capital

Working among the farmers to get the needed $15,000 capital subscribed are Bert Hawn, committee chairman, Mr. Fields, Mike Golden, Chas. Glassman, Peter Tuft, F. W. Hatch and Wm. Laseo. This amount of capital, it is said, will be amply sufficient to purchase the plant and repair and equip it.

Antioch, far distant from other milk delivery points, and close to Wisconsin clean producing territory, occupies a strategic position as a convenient shipping point, notwithstanding the contention of certain Chicago dealers who are spreading propaganda in an effort to discourage the dairymen and seeking to block the move to reopen the local plant. Milk is a necessity, and the marketing of the commodity is a matter of small concern once the local plant is reopened.

Concerted and prompt action on the part of the dairymen in raising the capital required to reopen the Antioch plant will make the producers in this locality independent for all time to come.

Committee members are reporting splendid progress in the work, and much of the capital stock already has been subscribed.

Death Claims Three As Auto Hits Train At Rondout Crossing

Three Lake Forest youths, returning from Libertyville at eleven thirty last Thursday evening, were killed instantly when the car in which they were riding collided with the fast merchandise train of the C. M. & St. Paul railroad on Rockland Road at Rondout. The dead are: Jack Pelmar, Edward Cooper, and Carl Johnson.

Their auto, a Hupmobile touring car, struck the train between the engine tank and the first express car and the impact hurled the occupants from the car and under the wheels of the train.

The crossing is a blind one, and admittedly one of the worst in the county, the view of the tracks being impeded from the south by the North Shore Line embankment. No guard is maintained there during the night hours. The watchman had been gone only a few minutes when the accident occurred.

The collision broke the air line of the express car and brought the train to a sudden stop. A member of the night switching crew at Rondout discovered the bodies of the men and summoned Coroner J. L. Taylor and a deputy sheriff.

Marks on the pavement indicated that the driver had made a vain attempt to stop after seeing the train, but had been unable to do so.

A night gateman was on the job at the dangerous crossing Friday night for the first time, presumably as a result of the accident, since frequent appeals to the railroad officials that the crossing be guarded at all hours have always hitherto fallen on deaf ears.

INVESTIGATORS IN MCHENRY CO. NOT LEGALLY EMPLOYED

Attorney General Rules That States Attorney Can Not Hire.

State's attorneys may not legally employ special investigators without the consent of the county, and investigators so employed may not be paid from funds received as fines from prosecutions of violations of the prohibition act, Attorney Oscar E. Carlstrom has ruled.

His opinion answered a query from the special state's attorney of McHenry county, acting in the office of State's Attorney Pouse, whose disappearance several weeks ago was connected with alleged activities of a "beer ring" in McHenry county, and the special state's attorney wished to know how these investigators were to be paid.

In spite of a painful boll on the hand which clamped his husking hook, Harold Holmes of Henry county won the Illinois corn picking championship recently at Galesburg. The champ received $100 and a gold medal for his efforts, and won the right to represent the state in the national contest at Wnebago, Minnesota, November 15.

Holmes tossed a net total of 28.41 bushels or 39 ears a minute into his wagon during the eighty minute time limit. Elmer Williams, state champion for the last two years and holder of the world's record of 35.8 bushels, was forced into sixth place with 25.41 bushels.

An hour before the contest the new champion was in a doctor's office receiving treatment for the boll, which he said, pained him considerably. Holmes, who is 26, has been husking corn since the age of 11.

Governor Len Small has promised to call a special session of the Illinois legislature to provide a new primary law for the voters of the state; the promise came after the announcement that Judge Fisher, Cook county circuit court, had declared the newly enacted primary measure unconstitutional. The case will be carried to the state supreme court and should that body sustain the ruling of the Cook county jurist, the call for a special session will follow.

The state highway department was adjudged victor in injunction proceedings in the circuit court by four Mason county property owners in an effort to change the route of the Easton-Mason City hard road now under construction.

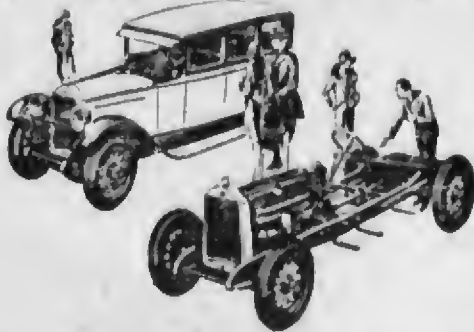

Judge Charles G. Briggie decided against the complaints and held that no major change had been made in the route of the road and that the state highway department was within the meaning of the statute in laying out the road.

Wisconsin's first super highway is being built from Milwaukee to Waukegan. The right of way is 120 feet wide and the present construction will consist of two 20 foot strips with a 50 foot wide parkway between. Later an additional 20 feet will be added to each strip, leaving ten feet in the center between them.

Records of Harry Basinger county clerk of Racine county, show that a large number of "old-timers" are enthusiastic nimrods. R. Colgers of Racine holds the honors, being 77 years old. One 82-year-old sportsman applied for a license, but was refused when it was found that he could see only 10 feet.

Sentimental Power

Sentiment is about the most powerful thing in the world. Timber experts say it is poor policy to teach children to plant a tree on Arbor day and let them put a tree in the house on Christmas day. True enough—reforestation and Christmas don't work well together. But so long as there is still sweetness and love light in the human heart Christmas will win. There are some things that rise above all practical consideration.—Mobile Register.

FINDS ROMANCE IS OUT OF EXPLORING

Amundsen to Devote Time to Lecturing.

Moscow.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the man who had peeped at the top and bottom of the world, is through.

"The airplane and dirigible have taken the romance out of exploration," he said. "Long sleds nowadays fly through the air. The good old times when terrible hardships were a pleasure are gone."

"The man who starts north or south in a dog team today feels like a piker. Some 'Byrd' comes along and squeezes a year's trip in one day of twenty-four hours. He pucks up a couple of chicken sandwiches, and then is too excited to eat. We in the old days dragged a ton of hard-tack over the ice and were glad to munch every crumb."

Though resolved to spend the rest of his life lecturing amid the luxuries of civilization, Amundsen believes there is much to be done.

The eleven-day train trip across the steppes of Siberia put him in a reflective mood. He waited five days for the weekly express at Vladivostok and it pulled into Moscow three and a half hours late.

"If anybody started to dig a hole in the ground," he mused. "Think of the unlimited possibilities of such a venture. We go down a couple of thousand feet and bring up limitless treasures. There must be something or nothing in the 8,000 miles down from New York to China."

Judged by comparative developments up to the present time, Amundsen pinned his hopes for future commercial and scientific flying on the dirigible as against the airplane.

With a little greater perfection of maneuvering apparatus, he said he had no doubt but that dirigibles could be anchored over any given spot on the face of the globe while scientists descended by means of rope ladders to make observations on the ground.

Trained life-savers in the United States, qualified by the Red Cross as experts in all phases of water safety, now number 134,582 adults and juniors, according to the Life-Saving Service of the American Red Cross, which reported 32,506 trained and qualified in the past year. This number does not include other thousands who were taught to swim.

Training courses conducted by the Red Cross last summer brought out a uniformly high standard of proficiency. In addition, more than 20 winter training courses were conducted the past year. Swimming "institutes" at camps in Arizona, California, Indiana, Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Missouri, Oregon, Washington, and Wisconsin, "apish weeks" and swimming and life-saving campaigns under Red Cross auspices held in many States aroused great interest.

"The experience gained during the last few years indicates that the dangers involved in water sports can be eliminated through training and by the adoption of water safety methods," a recent Red Cross report stated. "When our communities provide sufficient swimming pools, bathing beaches, and skating places, and furnish trained leaders under whose guidance both adults and children may enjoy themselves in safety, the number of preventable deaths through drowning will be greatly reduced."

The Red Cross is endeavoring to supply trained leaders in water safety so far as its facilities permit. To increase the effectiveness of this and other services, the Eleventh Annual Roll Call, from November 11 to 24, will urge an enrollment of 5,000,000.

The American Red Cross will ask an enrollment of 5,000,000 members for the coming year, during the Annual Roll Call, November 11-24 inclusive.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—From the comfortable financial situation in which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to paucity through the misfortune of a friend, Haxton Brown, whom he had unwisely trusted.

CHAPTER II—Learning of Haxton's misfortune, which means the destruction of his last hope, Milman engages a French butler, Agatha Brown, who speaks no English, and is to replace Sneed, servant of long standing. By Luty, Milman sends letters to Prof. Fleming Bradley, Floyd Malet, and Neeland Barnes, men whom the world has passed as failures, ones of high position, in response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III—After an excellent dinner Milman ushers his guests into his Japanese garden, where, after each has related the circumstances which wrecked their careers, he convinces them their misfortune are directly traceable to the machinations of an unscrupulous enemy, a man who had risen to high financial position and political power by underhand methods, chiefly blackmail, Paul Haxton. Haxton had ruined Brown, and incidentally Milman.

CHAPTER IV—Milman explains to his guests how, through his belief in Floyd Malet as a great sculptor and the victim of malevolent circumstances, he had subscribed to a great clipping bureau and kept a detective on Haxton's track, learning much to Haxton's discredit, though nothing which he could be reached legally. Himself impoverished through Haxton's financial crookedness, Milman proposes an association of the four men—an association outside the law—which shall pull down Haxton and force him to disgorge his ill-gotten financial gains.

CHAPTER V—Following Milman's disclosure, his three guests, after a consultation, practically decide to join him in the fight against Paul Haxton. Milman explains his ideas, admitting he has no real plan to bring about Haxton's downfall, except discreditable details about his personal and business life which he has gleaned from Herman Loddon, Haxton's tool on occasions when wine has loosened Loddon's tongue.

CHAPTER VI—Haxton's political ambition is the rational basis for his state. McKimber is the admitted party nominee, and must be eliminated. At his palatial residence, Great Rock, Haxton plans elaborate entertainments in his political interests. Returning to his humble abode, Neeland Barnes finds his daughter, Anita, who had been living with relatives in England. Having no fit home for the girl, Barnes takes her to Milman's, where she is welcomed as a guest. Overhearing the plans of the conspirators, Anita arranges to join them, assuring them of her confidence she can be of use.

CHAPTER VII—Mrs. Haxton, aware of her shortcomings as a society hostess, falls in with her husband's idea of hiring a well-bred woman and giving her full charge of the household. She engages a "Miss Agatha Brown," freshly Miss Agatha Barnes, to take charge. The girl refuses the employment of her father, but Professor Bradley, we believe in the Haxton household and the "association" awaits developments.

CHAPTER VIII—Haxton's daughters, personally unattractive, are at once jealous of Anita. Sneed, Milman's former butler, is engaged for the same position by Haxton. With their son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. McKimber are guests of the Haxtons. Robin at once falls in love with Anita and proposes marriage. The girl refuses, but she is aware that his father would oppose his son's marriage to a penniless unknown girl. Neeland Barnes and Bradley arrange a hiding place from which to spy on Haxton in his den.

CHAPTER IX—In an interview with McKimber, Haxton discloses his knowledge of an incident in the former's life, the publication of which would discredit him politically and socially, and exhibit proof demonstrating that McKimber withdraw from the political race in his favor, as the price of secrecy. McKimber, though interested in the offer, or even deceit, is overwhelmed by the apparent proof Haxton holds. From the hiding place Anita takes down the conversation in shorthand, but is visibly depressed when she joins her fellow conspirators.

CHAPTER X—The day after Haxton's interview with McKimber, the latter tells his son he will withdraw his opposition to Robin's engagement to Anita. Mrs. McKimber has favored it, as the way to happiness seems clear to Robin, but Anita, by thus admitting she loves him, definitely refuses to marry him. Mrs. Haxton, urged by her daughters, discharges Anita. The girl leaves, but the other members of the "association" remain in the Haxton household. Robin makes an anxious search but is unable to find Anita. He learns her recommendations were fraudulent and almost believes her to be an adventuress.

That an hour later a taxi came to the front door and Miss Agatha Brown left Great Rock. Paul Haxton did not learn of it until later. He only hoped the household efficiency would not be impaired. Miss Brown had had her uses. He had learned a great deal from the criticism of one used to the homes of the great. And, he mused, it might be better for him in the long run that she was replaced by someone of rather less physical attractions. He had been thinking too much about her.

"My dear," she had said to her footman, "you must stay on if you can until Uncle Peter has read what I have written. He may have other uses for you here."

The blond footman dropped his Cockney accent and the lackey's manner as he kissed her. "Shan't be very long here, I expect," he said. "I'm getting tired of it. Just as I open a bottle of wine and light a good cigar some d-d nobody rings for ice water, or the fire needs tending, or there's a mouse in a bedroom and I'm elected to slay it."

"But, daddy," she reproved him, "you are here on duty, and a very great deal more may depend on you than you think. I've been awfully proud of the way you carried it off."

in the world as honor or truth. Agatha was an adventuress, the fake victim of an accomplice. He wondered why there was not already a robbery of jewels. It must be because Mrs. Haxton had dismissed her before the day of the coup. His inquiries about Miss Brown had frightened the victim away. He was particularly anxious to meet the avenger.

Mrs. McKimber saw that her son was worried, but for the moment she was more disturbed at her husband's condition. He had aged for no reason that was comprehensible to his wife. He had spoken vaguely about giving up the senatorial race and living quietly away from his business. Robin was to be given complete charge. McKimber hinted that he might endorse Haxton. Secretly she was not sorry to relinquish the Washington idea. The prospect had been less alluring to her than to him. Mrs. McKimber was more interested in her home city than the nation's capital, with its jealousies, intrigues, and constant entertaining.

CHAPTER XI

Peter Milman received the transcript Nita had made from her rough notes without showing the tremendous eagerness that possessed him. "You have done splendidly," he said, and then hesitated a little. "I am almost afraid to read it."

"You need not be," she said slowly. "I think you will find that you have saved your home."

"Then it is complete success?" he cried. "There is still more to be done," she said, "but I think we have succeeded." She could not bear to talk any more.

In his library, Peter Milman read the document carefully. He saw exactly with what a deadly grip Paul Haxton held McKimber. But Peter Milman was not yet in a position to turn this knowledge to account. So far, McKimber was the sufferer in that, whereas only one man had known his secret, now it was shared by many. Milman thought of the thing impartially as though he were an arbitrator and McKimber's case had come before him. On one side, McKimber and Haxton. On the other, himself, Barnes, Bradley, and Malet. He persuaded himself that it was justice against injustice, right against wrong. He had brooded too long over the prospect of losing his home to have any qualms left. He waited impatiently until the hour when he expected Bradley and Barnes. They could not leave Great Rock until past ten o'clock, and it was almost midnight when he passed them Nita's report.

"The next thing to do is to obtain that envelope," Milman said. "We know they are in that room somewhere." "There's a big wall-safe of a modern type," Barnes said. "And therefore absolutely immune from us," Bradley commented. "I have long felt that there must be an apprenticeship to this sort of enterprise. Safe-breaking is practiced successfully by almost all the rogues who wander up and down our country. I know how it is done, but I couldn't do it myself."

"We dare not hire anyone to do it for us," Barnes said thoughtfully. "It seems to me we are up against it. If you haven't enough to hold him up with already, I don't see what else is to be done."

"There's a way out," said Peter Milman, "and a simple one. I admit we cannot crack a safe. Why not permit Paul Haxton to open it for us?"

"He wouldn't," Barnes cried; "torment would not make him do that." "You don't understand," said Peter mildly. "I mean simply this. Why should not Haxton open the safe, as he must do frequently, quite unaware that someone is ready to spring at him, tie him up and examine its contents at leisure?"

"By God," Barnes said excitedly. "It might work. There's danger in it, but it's an even chance it might succeed. I see the whole thing. I could be hiding where Nita was—there's plenty of room—and watch him. He wouldn't be carrying that gun of his, because he would probably have locked himself in and felt free from intrusion. If you can make that end of the bookcase movable so that it can be opened without warning Haxton, I believe I can get him."

At the prospect of action and danger, Neeland Barnes seemed another man. He had, indeed, visualized the whole thing. What was the risk of a bullet compared with getting from Haxton what would buy him the ranch in California?

"Give me two uninterrupted hours," Bradley asserted, "and I can make a very workmanlike job of it."

"It means," said Mrs. McKimber, "the duchess of Green-Cheese." "Couldn't there be such a person?" Robin was flushing red with anger. "Of course not. Where are you going to in such a hurry?"

He had no time to answer. He wanted very much to see the viscount. But here again he met disappointment. Sneed informed him that he had gone and left no forwarding address for his mail. A friend at his club advised Robin to consult the new Almanach de Bruxelles, in whose pages the nobility of continental Europe is described. There was no mention of any Count or Viscount de Guillain.

Robin went back to Great Rock a disillusioned young man, filled with bitterness. There was no such thing in the world as honor or truth. Agatha was an adventuress, the fake victim of an accomplice. He wondered why there was not already a robbery of jewels. It must be because Mrs. Haxton had dismissed her before the day of the coup. His inquiries about Miss Brown had frightened the victim away. He was particularly anxious to meet the avenger.

Mrs. McKimber saw that her son was worried, but for the moment she was more disturbed at her husband's condition. He had aged for no reason that was comprehensible to his wife. He had spoken vaguely about giving up the senatorial race and living quietly away from his business. Robin was to be given complete charge. McKimber hinted that he might endorse Haxton. Secretly she was not sorry to relinquish the Washington idea. The prospect had been less alluring to her than to him. ## POULTRY FACTS

ORNAMENTAL AND OTHER CHICKENS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Chickens of the Continental European, oriental, game, ornamental, and miscellaneous classes often have an unusual appeal, and a breeder who may first be attracted to such fowls by their unusual plumage or form may later develop a flock which has decided utility value, says the United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin No. 1507-P, "Standard Breeds and Varieties of Chickens II," just issued, discusses the qualities of the various breeds and varieties listed so that the inexperienced person may make a wise selection by reason of familiarity with the merits of each.

The Continental European class includes several breeds, among them the Polish. This breed was formerly popular in the United States, but with the increase in popularity of the Leghorn, interest in the Polish variety waned. It is still popular, however, as an ornamental fowl. A characteristic feature of all Polish birds is a crest surrounding the head.

There are bantams in several classes of the larger chickens and also classes of bantams for which there are no corresponding larger breeds. The bulletin discusses the more important characteristics of the breeds and varieties in the classes mentioned.

A copy of the new publication may be obtained free upon application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Finishing Poultry for Market Difficult Task

Finishing fowls for market is not fully comprehended by the average poultryman. It is practically an art, and one most guarded largely by previous conditions.

In the case where birds have been confined to a yard the entire season, they may be penned in a small enclosure and finished up for market in about ten days simply by feeding them all they can eat.

But when fowls have had unlimited range it is best not to shut them up and begin stuffing them from the start. Such a course is often attended by considerable loss. Fattening must be done gradually.

A favorite fattening mixture is made as follows: Corn meal, three parts; ground oats, one part; bran, one part; crude tallow, one part—all parts by weight.

The entire mess should be scalded and given for the first three meals of the day, with all the corn and wheat the fowls will consume at night. Sweet potatoes are also excellent for fattening. They should be cooked and thickened with cornmeal. They will put more flesh on a hen in the shortest time than any other food known.

And Josie Loescher and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bloss attended a surprise party on Fred Barte at Pleasant Prairie Saturday evening.

Miss Ida Jarnigo of Chicago visited her mother, Mrs. Kate Jarnigo, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Krahn attended the poultry show at Antioch last Friday.

This seems to be improvement week in Salem. Mrs. Borton just finished a new cement walk. Mr. Parrent a garage and James Campbell a garage.

Arthur Bloss and son, Arthur, Jr., were Racine shoppers Saturday.

The Jubilee bunco club met with Mrs. Schonscheck Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kuktyuski spent the week end in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haase transacted business in Kenosha Saturday.

John Milward returned to his home in Kenosha Sunday after spending several weeks with his daughter Mrs. A. Bloss.

The old time dance given at the Salem opera house Saturday evening was well attended and all report a good time.

The following were entertained at the Fleming home Sunday: Mrs. W. Williams and son, Walter; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams and Mr. Lawrence Fleming of Chicago; Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Elkerton and daughter, Elizabeth; and Helen Ward of Kenosha.

Asking Something Harder

Obsequies of Mrs. Jennie Pierce Are Held at Trevor

Mrs. Jennie Kennedy Pierce of Trevor, died at the Burlington Memorial hospital on Monday morning after a serious operation performed a week ago from which she failed to rally.

She was born May 16 1880, at Trevor and made her home there during her girlhood. She was married in August 1, 1917 to Milton Pierce, and moved with him to Pleasant Prairie and from there to Antioch where she lived until the death of her husband a year ago last October.

Since the death of Mr. Pierce she has made her home with her father, Albert Kennedy of Trevor. Besides her father she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Sholtz of Wilmet, and Mrs. Clayton Lester of Spring Prairie.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Kennedy home at Trevor, the Rev. A. M. Krahl of Antioch officiating. Interment was made at the Liberty Corners cemetery.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEER WORKERS BIG FACTOR

Broader Industry in Home Chap- ter and in Field Development of Disaster Service.

Volunteer industry in the American Red Cross is on an upward trend, due to the broader demand for assistance in meeting disaster relief requirements. Men and women from Red Cross Chapters in the last year exemplified by their work for disaster victims a greater activity than in any year since the end of the World War.

This service was given without stint and with the finest of spirit, according to Red Cross officials. Volunteer Red Cross workers have served by the thousands with the local Chapters in garment production, printing raised-type reading matter for the blind, in hospital service, as canteen workers and motor corps aids. Nearly all active Chapter workers are volunteers.

More than 90 per cent of the available reading material for the blind is produced by volunteer Red Cross workers. Volunteers produced 175,481 garments, 2,057,912 surgical dressings for hospital use, and 6,398 articles for emergency closets maintained by Red Cross Chapters in various communities for disaster and other emergencies. The garment production, large as it was, did not include the thousands of garments made for the Mississippi flood sufferers by volunteers. Another important volunteer service is the preparation and sending of 30,000 Christmas bags to soldiers and bluejackets on duty in foreign stations.

Approximately 250 Chapters participate in Motor Corps service, while the growing interest of volunteers in health work constitutes an additional community safeguard in emergencies when the services of regular nurses might be overtaxed.

Volunteer service will be an important factor in the forthcoming eleventh Annual Roll Call, from November 11 to 24, in enrolling the 5,000,000 membership to be sought.

Picking Geese Feathers

Geese yield an abundant crop of feathers, but they should not be picked until after the breeding season. The feathers are ripe for picking when the quills appear dry and do not contain blood. Although the demand for these feathers is increasing, the feathers add to the profit of geese raising. Geese should not be picked just before marketing as the feathers must be right for the fowls to bring highest prices.

Priests Kept Busy

In Calcutta there is a temple to Kali, the Hindu goddess, in which more than one hundred goats are killed daily.

Salutation

"Alleluia" may be literally translated as "All hail to Him who is!"

Poultry Notes

Laying hens need water and neglect to provide it may seriously reduce the egg yield.

Much disease can be kept out of the poultry flock by burying or burning the dead birds.

In mixing a ration the physical effect of a feed must be considered as well as the chemical nutrients.

Poultry yards are necessary on the farm, if the flock is to be properly cared for. Disease prevention and control are impossible if the hens range all over the farm.

Ground oats may be used for growing stock or laying hens when fed in limited quantities.

A straw loft in the poultry house is an advantage to the flock owner. The straw loft helps to keep the house cool during summer and warm during winter.

Too much salt is a poison for hens, but they need a little just as humans do. A pound to 100 pounds of mash improves their appetite and aids digestion.

Let the chickens on the farm rough it and rustle for themselves and they will give little in return.

The hens should exercise and have plenty of green food. If they are fed properly and not overfed, you will have no trouble with soft-shelled eggs.

Bran mixed with meat scraps fed dry in hoppers, oats scattered in a litter of straw corn fed on the cob and anything in the shape of green stuff, such as beans, cabbage, pumpkins, etc., should be fed to hens.

The World a Chessboard

The chessboard is the world; the pieces are the phenomena of the universe; the rules of the game are what we call the laws of nature. The player on the other side is hidden from us. We know that his play is always fair, just and patient. We also know to our cost that he never overlooks a mistake or makes the smallest allowance for ignorance.—Thomas Huxley.

Second Childhood, Perhaps

The world may be a million years old, as scientists assert. If so, it is pretty jazy for its age.—El Paso Herald.

Tax Paid by Smokers

The internal revenue taxes collected in North Carolina are very large because taxes on tobacco are collected at the factories rather than from retailers. Since the price of the revenue stamps is eventually paid by the smoker of the tobacco, people all over the world contribute to the internal revenue receipts of North Carolina.

Name Made Immortal

The name "Bunker Hill" is derived from the family of Bunker, which owned considerable property in Christown during the early period. Bunker hill was formerly a pasture belonging to the Bunker family.

A car for her, too!

In thousands of American homes there are now two automobiles—"a car for her, too," so that there may be transportation for the family while "he" drives to business.

And because it is so easy to drive and park . . . because it is so decidedly smart and comfortable, today's Chevrolet is an outstanding favorite among women drivers everywhere.

Mrs. David Johnson, Mrs. Genevieve Bryant, and Mrs. Lee Batterson gave a miscellaneous shower at the latter's home Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Eva LaMeer who became the bride of Leslie Firchow the following day. Those present were: Mrs. Charles LaMeer, and daughter, Eva, Mrs. Charles Butrick, Mrs. Wesley Williams, Mrs. Harold Bryant, Mrs. Ada DeVuyt, Mrs. William Long, Mrs. Roy Murdoch, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. John Alderson, Mrs. Lawrence Whitchee, Miss Edith Murdoch, Mrs. Clare Bryant, Mrs. Harry Gaines and Mrs. Marshall Bishop. tions of having suffered by his stay in prison, and told reporters and others that he would continue as he had begun if he got out of this scrape and that he certainly did not intend to work.

Details of Robbery Told

The robbery of the Williams Brothers' store was staged at 2:30 a. m., May 5th, the pair having gained admission through one of cellar windows and helped themselves in methodical fashion to a large supply of silks, hosiery, silk underwear, and some articles of men's clothing and hardware.

The pair were seized by Lake Forest police at 4:30 that morning. At the time of their arrest they told the police that an argument between them as to whether or not they should stop at Waukegan for gasoline had been settled in the affirmative by Foster who was driving the car and had accounted for their delay in getting into the city and riding themselves of the loot.

The men when caught were heavily armed, both being equipped with revolvers, which they had placed on top of the loot in the back of the car. In addition they had two shotguns. In spite of their arsenal they did not get a chance at the policemen who approached them with drawn guns.

All of the stolen goods were restored to the Williams Brothers' store.

When the sentence was announced to the prisoners it was received in silence by Foster, but White started in with a storm of abuse and repetitions of the assertion that they had not been in Antioch. In view of the fact that the men had boasted repeatedly about their prowess, and White had been particularly open in his assertions, Assistant States Attorney Block, who had prosecuted the case cut in and said:

"It had not been my intention to send the records of these men to the prison authorities but in view of their attitude I see no reason why our recommendation should not contain the full facts so that they will be held as long as the parole board deems fit."

Both had lied. They contradicted
